

PRINCETON MAN ASKS PROBE OF SERIOUS CHARGE

Hears Needy are Denied Work Unless They are Democrats

Princeton, Ill., June 13—(AP)—State Senator Thomas P. Gunning, Republican, today revealed he had asked Robert Kinsley, Director of the State Department of Public Works & Buildings, to investigate charges made by persons residing in his district that they had been refused employment on highway construction jobs because they had not voted the Democratic ticket or had refused to say they would in the future.

The Senator made public correspondence he has had with Kinsley together with a reply from the director in which it was stated the Senator's communications had been referred to Ernest Lieberman, State Highway Engineer.

The Senator informed Kinsley that "I am not taking the position these charges are true, but as a representative of the people of the 37th district in the Illinois Senate, I deem it my duty to do all in my power to protect the rights of every citizen. I am asking you in the name of justice to have this matter investigated at once."

Letters Made Public
In his letter, as made public by the Senator, Kinsley said the state did not have a provision in its contracts providing contractors were to select ten per cent of the workers employed on a job and that Democratic precinct committeemen of the township through which the road passed were to approve the hiring of the remainder.

Kinsley, at Springfield, said each state highway contract carried a provision making it mandatory on the contractors to obtain their unskilled labor through the Federal re-employment bureau.

In his first letter to Kinsley, the Senator said constituents of his who resided in the Atkinson neighborhood and at Manlius had complained to him of the employment situation on state highway projects.

Must Be Endorsed
The Senator said Atkinson residents had charged that no man receives employment on the work unless "he first secures the endorsement of the Atkinson Democratic precinct committeemen." It is charged, he said, that the precinct committeemen refuse his endorsement to anyone, regardless of need, unless "they voted the Democratic ticket in the primary or pledge themselves to vote the Democratic ticket in the fall."

Another Atkinson resident, Gunning said, claimed he had asked the township supervisor for food for his family. The supervisor advised him to obtain work on the highway, the Senator wrote, "and, as I understand it, was willing to endorse him as one in need." Because the man admitted voting the Republican ticket, Gunning said, he did not secure work.

Non-Voter Refused
The Senator also related another alleged incident in which a youth 20 years of age, who desired to aid his destitute family, claimed he "was told that inasmuch as he was not old enough to vote, he could not be of much help to the Democratic party and therefore could not obtain a position."

In his first letter to the director the Senator said: "Surely, those in authority in the state of Illinois are not taking the position that men must vote the Democratic ticket or starve."

Dairymen Cannot Legally Use Any
Bottles Not Own

Dixon housewives are again reminded that the state law forbids milk dealers using bottles other than their own, and when containers of other dealers are put out and picked up by dairymen it puts them to the expense of having the foreign bottles returned to their rightful owners. Only bottles belonging to the dairymen from whom patrons secure milk should be put out. One Dixon dairyman recently had 1,150 of his bottles returned to him by a Rockford clearance agency. While they were in other dealers' hands he was forced to purchase additional containers to carry on his business.

COMMITTEE IS NAMED TO AID RELIEF WORK

To Distribute Seeds
and Food for Live
Stock in County

The Illinois Emergency Relief Committee for Lee County, in session yesterday afternoon at the Dixon relief headquarters, named a Drought Relief Advisory Committee which will be expected to help with the distribution of feed for livestock and seed for re-planting to such Lee County farmers who are destitute and whose stock need feed.

The membership of the committee is: C. E. Yale and J. J. Cole of Amboy, John L. Davies of Dixon, Wm. Brucker of China township and Oliver Gehant of West Brooklyn.

Take Legal Description
Farmers are applying in considerable numbers at the Dixon and Amboy offices of the I. E. R. C. and filling out their applications for drought relief. It is necessary that each farmer make a personal application at either the Amboy or Dixon office. One of the necessary details is a legal description of their farm, and they should have that information with them. Their tax notices will have the description on them.

Direct Operations on Hearts Seen as Development of Surgery Within the Next Few Years by Cleveland

Cleveland, June 13—(AP)—A new type of heart surgery, promising an avenue of escape from the present tremendous heart death rate in the United States, was announced today by Claude S. Beck, Cleveland surgeon.

He pictures surgeons in the near future operating directly upon hearts. The hearts will be patched literally, he predicted, with grafts of tissue taken from other parts of the body. Flattened hearts will be straightened. Leaking heart valves will be closed. Torn hearts will be sewn up. The surgery which will do this with comparative safety, without stopping the heart, is already in the experimental stage.

In making these predictions Dr. Beck enumerated heart injuries which he said the medical profession has scarcely begun to recognize.

Table Resolution as Attorney Says OK Vote is Mandatory

The board of supervisors this morning unanimously voted to table the resolution passed by the Dixon city council Monday evening, creating a new township to include all of the territory within the city limits.

Assistant Supervisor Leon Garrison made the motion to table the resolution immediately on its reading and Assistant Supervisor George Beede seconded the motion.

Supervisor Henry Knetsch told board members that he had conferred with State Attorney Edward Jones who had informed him that it was practically mandatory that the board adopt the resolution, and he suggested that it be referred to the proper committee for investigation and a recommendation.

"If the city has the power to go ahead, why bring this before the board?" Supervisor Finch of Amboy asked.

Chairman Finn asked Supervisor D. H. Spencer if he cared to speak on the subject and when he declined, the vote was taken which tabled the resolution.

The road and bridge committee presented a recommendation in which it favored the adoption of the resolution presented Monday by the village board of West Brooklyn, asking for an extension of the state aid system within the corporate limits of the village. Supervisor H. L. Gehant moved the passage of the recommendation which was seconded by Supervisor John Fassig.

Give Village Road
A long discussion which lasted until shortly before noon, followed during which County Superintendent of Highways Fred Leake told the board that the road and bridge committee had met with the West Brooklyn village board yesterday afternoon to canvass the proposed extension. According to information received from the local state department of highways office, the superintendent stated it as his opinion that the state department would not approve of the extension in the event that the board acted favorably. He cited the provisions of the present gas tax refund law that cities and villages may not construct spur highways to connect business districts with state aid roads from gas tax funds. He further explained that West Brooklyn was peculiarly situated in its business district, in that it was not located on the state aid route in Brooklyn township, adding that the Brooklyn spur as proposed might come to the village limits, but could not be extended east to pass through the business district.

Various members of the board expressed the opinion that the village was deserving of receiving this improvement, and a roll call vote resulted in the board voting unanimously in favor of the recommendation.

The board adjourned at noon to go to the county home near Eldorado to make their annual inspection of the county's property and where they were the guests of the Superintendent and Matron, Mr. and Mrs. William Fry at dinner.

CONTINUE PROBE INTO FATAL AIR PLANE DISASTER

Report That One of the Seven Victims Had
Navy Data Denied

BULLETIN

Washington, June 13—(AP)—Secretary Swanson said today at a press conference that William Bader of the Semet-Solway Company, Buffalo, killed in an airplane crash Saturday night on Mongaup Mountain, N. Y., was carrying a formula for ammonium picrate, used in the manufacture of gunpowder.

Swanson said there was nothing confidential about the formula and that Bader's firm, a subsidiary of the Dupont Company, was merely one of ten bidders for a Navy contract.

The Secretary added the Navy had no suspicions in connection with the crash.

Liberty, N. Y., June 13—(AP)—Investigators sought today to determine whether an explosion preceded the tragic smash-up of the big American Air Lines plane against Mongaup mountain and, if so, whether chemicals carried in the luggage of a passenger could have been responsible.

Coroner Victor G. Bourke, saying he was positive there was an explosion, disclosed he expected new information before noon on whether it occurred before the sky liner crashed into the rugged mountain side, killing its seven occupants.

He said new evidence might lead to postponement of the inquest set for 4 P. M.

District Attorney William Deckman of Jeffersonville conferred with Dr. Bourke and state police officers in the backroom of a restaurant until an early hour this morning. There was no indication of the trend of their discussion.

No Secret Papers
Reports that "secret" naval documents were found in the luggage of William B. Bader, a Buffalo chemist, one of the dead, were denied in Washington. Naval officers said any papers in Bader's possession were not "confidential." They explained Bader's employer, the Semet-Solway Company, was an unsuccessful bidder several months ago for a Navy order.

Bader's luggage contained the chemicals under investigation. Coroner Bourke said so far he had no information as to their nature.

"That's why we are holding an inquest," he said. "We can force information that we can't get in any other way."

T. H. Bennett, an official of the Semet-Solway Company, declared any idea the chemicals figured in the accident was "absolutely unthinkable."

Reason for Belief
Dr. Bourke explained his conclusion of an explosion was based on the fact six of the bodies had been eviscerated. While saying intense heat could have produced the same result, he pointed out that one of the six bodies had not been burned severely.

A handbag belonging to Bader contained three small bottles of chemicals, a formula labeled "Navy's Specifications of Explosive 'D'" and literature about high explosives.

Bourke said he would retain possession of the articles until after the inquest. He said he was told by Bennett that the bag contained valuable naval papers for which the chemical company was responsible.

Airliner's Wreck Is Pyre of Seven

This twisted and charred wreckage was all that remained of the Curtiss Condor airliner which crashed near Livingston Manor, N. Y., in the Catskills, carrying two pilots, a stewardess, and four passengers to death. Members of the searching party are shown holding part of the propeller, with the skeleton of the tail framework reared at the left. Theory that explosion of chemicals caused the fatal plunge was probed after picric acid was found in luggage of a passenger.

New Type of Trucking May Rid Highways of Motor Trucks and Trailers; Ship Them by Trains

New Service Inaugurated
by Big Company out
Of Chicago

Chicago, June 13—(AP)—Highways free of truckers and trailers loomed as a possibility today with the inauguration of a new type of freight service.

Seven truck trailers were driven onto flat cars last night on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad, for a ride to Davenport, Ia., and the innovation was described as a boon to all concerned.

Jack Keeshin, operator of the Keeshin Motor Express Company, said the trucker benefits under this new service because trailers can be carried on flat cars cheaper than they can be hauled over the highways under the higher cost of tires, gasoline and labor brought about by the national recovery administration.

Railroad Benefits
"The railroad," he said, "benefits because we're paying 24 cents a car mile as compared with the cost of 14.6 cents a car mile to the railroads, according to government figures."

"Shippers benefit because we are preparing a tariff of rates lower than is charged for truck hauling and lower than the railroads can handle less than carload business for."

"And the motoring public will benefit by the removal of these trucks from the highways."

Keeshin, one of America's largest truckers, said in the first year he planned to ship 4,000 carloads of his trailers. He said the railroads would need to make no new hauls, as the trailers would make round trips loaded. He described the system as a "life saver" to the motor freight industry.

Ashton City Tax
for 1934 Will Not be Levied: Surplus

ASHTON—Citizens of this community were informed there would be no city tax levied for 1934. The community is free from debt and has more money than it needs, officials announced. Despite a reduction in assessed valuations, the city piled up a surplus which now totals $1,600.

The average motorist paid only $6 in gasoline taxes in 1919, while today the average is $32.

GOVERNMENT TO
OPEN UP SOME
IDLE FACTORIES

Operation of Underwear
Plants Planned
by Hopkins

Washington, June 13—(AP)—Extension of the relief program to include government operation of two underwear factories at Boston was being worked out today, with a possibility that other idle factories would be utilized along similar lines.

To date, such activities to make jobs and have the products distributed to those in need have been limited to operation of canneries in rural sections to preserve surplus vegetables.

Proposals were made to Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, several months ago, that some idle factories be opened to provide employment for operatives in making shoes and garments to be distributed to the unemployed.

The Massachusetts case is the first, apparently, where that proposal is being followed. Only yesterday Hopkins, in the south, expressed the belief that there would be no going back "to the old plan of relieving those without jobs," but that instead there would be a making of jobs.

Under the scheme, relief authorities in the various states would supply money for buying raw materials and paying workmen where necessary. In some instances goods made in one factory operating on relief goods might be exchanged with others for supplies needed by their workers.

In Germany there is an average of one automobile for every 130 persons.

JOHN S. HARVEY,
FORMER RAILWAY
ENGINEER, DEAD

Passed Away at Gr.
Detour Home Tuesday Afternoon

John Stevens Harvey, who had been critically ill for the past four months, passed away at 4:40 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at Grand Detour, where he had made his home for the past year and a half. Funeral services will be held at St. Luke's Episcopal church in Dixon at 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon. Rev. Fr. B. Norman Burke officiating, and with interment in Oakwood cemetery.

Mr. Harvey was born in Chicago Oct. 29, 1862 coming to Dixon when he was four years of age. He spent his young manhood here and at the age of 20 he entered the employ of the Northwestern Railroad, attaining a position of locomotive engineer. He continued with the Northwestern 47 years until he was retired on pension.

He is survived by his widow and four children by a former marriage: Ross of Davenport, Charles of Clinton, Mrs. Hillis Lee of Maquoketa, Ia. and Eugene of Memphis, Tenn. He was loved by all who knew him and will be mourned by a host of friends.

Both left suicide notes telling their reasons for the act. The young woman said she had recently undergone two operations for mastoid trouble. A third operation, she said, had been ordered and both she and her mother feared she would not survive it.

They discussed their fears and agreed it would be better for them to make their exit from life together.

At dawn they left their home, not far from the beach. At the water's edge they tied themselves together and started walking out into the lake. When they could wade no longer they swam.

About three-quarters of a mile out the daughter said, she discovered that her mother was dead. With the desire that their bodies be found and buried, she said, she turned and started swimming back toward shore, towing the body of her mother behind her.

Girl Made Shore
The young woman succeeded in getting all the way back to shore, then collapsed unconscious on the sand. They were discovered by Jimmie Murphy, a newsboy. He called police, who took the mother's body to an undertaking establishment and the young woman to her home.

A doctor and two nurses were hastily summoned, and succeeded in reviving the girl. From phrases and words gasped by their patient (Continued on Page 2.)

The company was given until July 13 to show why the commission should not issue an order requiring the company to desist from the alleged misrepresentations.

Public Debt of United States to Reach an All-Time High on Friday;
Will Total About 27 Billion Dollars

Washington, June 13—(AP)—The gross public debt of the United States will reach an all-time high of about $27,000,000,000 on Friday.

The wartime peak of $26,596,701,648 was reached August 31, 1919. Friday is the date of a bond issue of $300,000,000 and a note issue of $500,000,000, both announced some time ago. The former was eight times oversubscribed and the latter nine times.

Treasury officials said that, judging from the reception given these issues, financing of recovery plans would be accomplished without trouble.

Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, said in a radio speech last night that congressional appropriations for the next fiscal year would total more than $6,800,000,000.

SUICIDE SCHEME OF MOTHER AND DAUGHTER FAILS

Tied Selves Together and Swam Out Into Lake;
One Is Dead

Highland Park, Ill., June 13—(AP)—Preferring death together to the chance that one of them would die on the operating table, a wealthy matron of this north shore Chicago suburb and her 22-year-old daughter today tied their bodies together with clothes line and swam out in Lake Michigan.

The young woman later, the unconscious girl and the dead body of her mother, still tied together, were found on the beach near their home by a newsboy.

The drowned woman was Mrs. Alice King Bott, 63, of 5 Beach Lane. Her daughter, Margaret, was taken to their home, where she told the story of the bizarre suicide pack after being revived.

Both left suicide notes telling their reasons for the act. The young woman said she had recently undergone two operations for mastoid trouble. A third operation, she said, had been ordered and both she and her mother feared she would not survive it.

They discussed their fears and agreed it would be better for them to make their exit from life together.

GREAT BRITAIN HAS NO PURPOSE OF ANY PAYMENT

Sec. Hull's Suggestion of Payment in Goods
Proves Futile

BULLETIN

Washington, June 13—(AP)—President Roosevelt is willing to consider payments in goods by European war debtors only on a partial basis.

This was made known at the President's semi-weekly press conference in comment on the United States note to Great Britain yesterday pertaining to the payments due next Friday.

The suggestion for this manner of payments made in the note was declared not to be an offer for full payment on such a basis.

Reaction abroad was divided, with indications of disfavor in London and possibly favor in Paris.

Roosevelt emphasized that the American note was simply a reply to the British default, pointing out a way of payment rather than making an offer.

London, June 13—(AP)—Great Britain does not intend to make a war debts payment "in kind," as suggested in an American note yesterday, it was indicated today in authoritative political circles.

Great Britain, it was understood, believes payment in goods would only complicate the situation.

Much surprise was created in London by the reference of Cordell Hull, American Secretary of State, to payments in kind, as the United States heretofore has insisted on dollar payments.

Official quarters at Downing Street were silent while the cabinet took a full opportunity to study the situation before the government's attitude is stated to parliament, probably tomorrow.

Finds No Response
America's suggestion for initiative from the debtor finds no response here so far, as the situation has been studied.

Should the theory of payment in kind finally be found practical for consideration the British view still is that initiative from Washington would be necessary for a conference needed to deal with such a settlement.

The view held in political quarters here, summed up, is that Great Britain is not in a position to pay war debts either in kind or in any other way.

As for the continent, there were no indications of a change of policy either by France or Belgium. The Belgian ambassador made that clear in Washington yesterday, as did Czechoslovakia's.

French and Italian replies, available in Washington shortly, are expected to follow the general European thesis of suspended payments until a final settlement is agreed upon.

TAXI MAN SAYS
HE SAW WOODEN
GUN DILLINGER

He Claims Killer Was In Northfield, Minn. on Tuesday Morning

St. Paul, Minn., June 13—(AP)—The will-o-the-wisp trail of John Dillinger turned back to the north-west today as Federal officers checked a report that the Indiana outlaw had been seen alive.

Donald Murray, a former taxicab driver in Chicago, reported that he had seen Dillinger in Northfield, Minn., 45 miles south of here, about 3 A. M. Tuesday morning, Murray said he knew Dillinger because he had driven him "dozens of times" in his cab.

Murray's story, not altogether agreeing with known facts about Dillinger, was that he alighted from a freight train and approached a parked car containing four men.

"I wanted a smoke and when I saw someone in the car light a cigarette, I walked over to ask for one," Murray said. "When I got within 50 feet of the car, they turned on the lights inside of the machine and Dillinger and the driver beside him in the front seat turned flashlights on me."

"What the—do you want?" Dillinger asked as I came near.

"All I want is a cigarette," I told them.

"Here's your cig," the driver said. I reached in the car to get it and saw a machine gun lying on the floor of the back seat. I recognized Dillinger and the other three men looked plenty tough to me, too.

When he handed me the cig, the driver told me, "Now get out of here."

"I didn't stop to argue, and even started running half a block away."

"KIDNAPED" JAP
CONSUL FOUND IN A CEMETERY

Had Planned Suicide: Discovery Averts Complications

Nanking, China, June 13—(AP)

—The strange case of Elmer Kuramoto, the Japanese Vice Consul who disappeared four and one half days ago, was cleared up today in time to avert threatened difficulties between China and Japan.

Kuramoto was found sitting in a graveyard beside an ancient tomb of the Ming dynasty.

He was unkempt, hungry, and uninterested in the fact that soldiers and warships had been called out by two nations because he had strayed.

He told Chinese authorities he had gone into the cemetery to commit suicide because he had failed to achieve promotion in the Japanese consular service.

Apparently he had not eaten during his sojourn and the pangs of approaching starvation saved him from self-destruction.

"Hunger forced me to hold on to life," he said.

President's Power to Change Tariff
Rates is Complete

Washington, June 13—(AP)—The White House foresees "healthier trade" growing from the country's new tariff policy.

That policy, giving President Roosevelt power to negotiate reciprocal trade treaties, was written into law last night with the presidential signature.

The Chief Executive, now for the first time, can make tariff bargains with other countries—and reduce or raise this country's import rates accordingly—without consent of Congress. Changes in rates will be limited to 50 per cent.

Twenty-seven nations, eager to expand their trade with the United States, already have signified their willingness to make treaties.

'NO MORE TAXES'
CRY IS HEARD
IN HUEY'S STATE

Call to Arms and the Use of Hempen Rope are Threatened

Baton Rouge, La., June 13—(AP)

—No more taxes—or else!

With full-throated roars of approval for suggestions that the "else" might include pistols and the noose, a state-wide protest meeting hurled demands for economy and reform at Senator Huey Long and the state administration.

The thousands attending the meeting last night adopted a set of resolutions telling Louisiana's lawmakers what is expected of them.

The legislature is considering a "property tax relief" program for which Senator Long stumped part of the state and this was the bullseye of the attack. It would substitute special levies for present taxes, but speakers and resolutions demanded property tax relief without additional taxation.

"If it is necessary to teach them decency at the end of a hempen rope, I for one am willing to swing the rope," asserted Mayor George W. Hardy, Jr., of Shreveport.

Hint at "Calto Arms"

"The next summons must and will be a call to arms unless the present protest is heeded," he said.

"How many of you will come back to Baton Rouge if the demands we voice are not heeded?" the mayor asked. "Hold up your hands."

"We'll bring our pistols, too," shouted several as hands appeared above heads.

Grand jury investigation of official maladministration, "de-politicization" of state educational institutions and elimination of the "dictatorship" were included with the economy "demands" in the resolutions. Their text, as well as the speeches, expressed the possibility of a "resort to force in assertion of constitutional rights when peaceful means fail."

Every city of importance in Louisiana and many towns and villages were represented at the meeting.

THE MONARCH SUPREME
(By May Griffie Robinson.)

W HILE kingdoms crumble and decay
One monarch keeps her throne;
A despot she, of lordly sway—
Queen Baby holds her own.

She fears no revolution dire—
Her loyal subjects deem
Their greatest privilege to serve
This autocrat supreme.

The high chair is her chair of state
Her crown, her golden curls;
Her scepter is a rattle-box
Her jewels, two wee pearls.

Her little kingdom is secure—
No rival ever known
Nor wars, nor anarchists can move
Queen Baby from her throne!

Astor Apologizes and Gets Empress Eugenie Ring Back

New York, June 13 —(AP)—Young John Jacob Astor has his ring back—the $100,000 32-carat diamond he gave Eileen Gillespie, society girl, his former fiancée.

In exchange for the ring, said Miss Gillespie's parents, the 21-year-old Astor, one of the world's richest young men, delivered a written apology for "his language to their daughter," and retracted "threats concerning her and her family."

With the ring, said the Gillespies, was returned "every other article received by Miss Gillespie from Mr. Astor except those of a perishable nature which unfortunately could not be returned."

Returning from a trip around the world last month, Astor said he was wondering when he would get the ring back and proceeded to become engaged to another debutante, Ellen Tuck French, who was to have been a bridesmaid at the Gillespie-Astor wedding. He gave her another ring.

Miss Gillespie and her parents had nothing to say. They still kept the Empress Eugenie stone.

Then, yesterday, from her Park Avenue home Mrs. Gillespie announced the ring and other articles had been returned.

Ankeny, of Chicago, were united in marriage at 8 o'clock in the presence of eighteen guests, immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom, by Rev. Lloyd Warren Walter, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church.

The home was beautifully decorated in yellow, green and white. The single ring ceremony was employed, the vows being taken under a bridal archway between the living room and dining room, the streamers in yellow, green and white extending from a large white wedding bell. Ferns and palms added beauty to the effect. There were no attendants.

The bride was beautifully attired in a modish white silk suit. She wore a charming white hat and all her accessories were white. She wore a corsage of tea roses and baby's breath.

After the ceremony and congratulations a delicious two course wedding luncheon was served. The white wedding cake was decorated artistically in yellow and green, and these colors were carried out in all the decorations of the dining room. A lovely bouquet of sweet peas also graced the table.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Ankeny left on a short wedding trip and on their return will make their home at 4243 Broadway, Chicago, where the bridegroom has a home nicely furnished.

Mrs. Ankeny is a young woman of sweet personality whose many friends, join those of Mr. Ankeny in wishing them much happiness. Mr. Ankeny has an excellent position in Chicago.

WALKER'S WAISTLINE.

There were a lot of things about former Mayor Jimmy Walker that you couldn't admire. His retirement from public life was met with sighs of relief in a great many quarters.

But there was one thing which many a man envied the debonair Jimmy. That was the trim, athletic waistline to which he clung 'way past the time when the average man begins to show signs of thickness about the midsection.

All idols fall in time, and now Walker's former valet is back from a visit to Walker in England, telling how genial Jimmy is getting larger around the waist. His shirts pinch him at the neck.

Too bad! Oh, Jimmy, they took away your job, your prestige, your wisecracks—must that trim, dapper figure also be taken from you? If you ever come home again, New York may not even know you, your last claim to distinction finally taken by the toll of time.

LET AMERICA CORRECT THIS INJUSTICE.

Vera Hellman is a woman without a country. Unlike the "Man Without a Country," of Edward Everett Hale's famous tale, Vera Hellman is in no way responsible for her plight. She is one of 405 unoffending aliens whose cases are on record in the Department of Labor.

They have done nothing out of the way, nothing illegal, but they face deportation, separation from their families and friends, and in some cases loss of their means of livelihood because of our tangled immigration laws.

Miss Hellman lives in New York. She is unable to leave the United States, although, under the law, she can not remain here. Born in Russia, she and her parents went to Berlin to escape the revolution.

In 1932 she came to the United States, using a League of Nations passport. Since she is Jewish, she can not return to Germany, and there is no other country to which she can go.

She has made every effort to obey the law by leaving the U. S., but she can not leave and she can not stay legally, although her sister, a naturalized citizen, has given her a home.

In every large community in the country there are cases which are similar—husbands and wives separated, children banished to countries they have never seen and where they know not a living soul, because of legal complications.

The Ellis Island Committee and Labor Department workers have investigated the 405 unoffending aliens. At the same time they have unearthed records in New York and Chicago showing 235 criminal aliens who are not deportable because of loopholes in the law.

On the basis of the information they collected, five bills have been drawn and presented to Congress by Secretary of Labor Frances E. Perkins and Col. Daniel W. MacCormack, commissioner of immigration and naturalization, calling for changes in existing immigration statutes.

One of the remedies proposed in these bills is the giving of limited discretion to authorities to avert deportation of certain aliens of good character who have not been convicted of crime and who are not engaged in subversive political agitation.

If the discretionary powers bill is passed, Vera Hellman need no longer be a woman without a country. Scores of home-loving, law-abiding men and women, cruelly separated from their loved ones, can look forward to reunion with their families and return to their homes.

LO, THE POOR INDIAN!

It is three hundred years and more since the Pilgrims landed in Massachusetts and met the Wampanoags, native Indians of the Martha's Vineyard region.

No better reminder of their complete submergence under the tide of white invasion could be had than the news that the Rev. Leroy Perry of Gay Head, Mass., is teaching to the few surviving Wampanoags their own tribal language.

Forgotten by the tribesmen themselves, it has been preserved in white men's collected lore of the Indians, and now a few straggling braves are to learn from a white teacher the language of their fathers.

If they ever tell enough lies about Senator Huey Long to kick him out of the Senate, they'll kick him right into the White House. — The Rev. Gerald L. M. Smith of Shreveport, La.

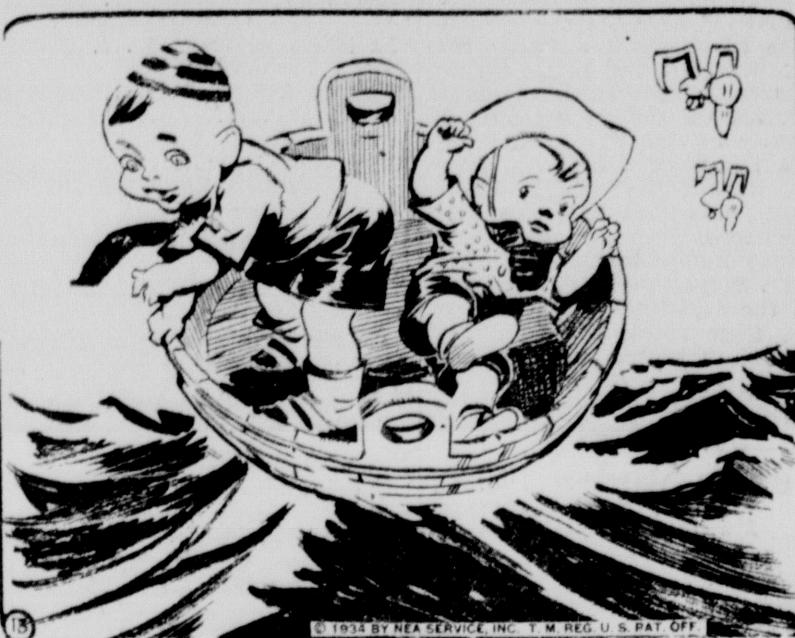

There can be no real and lasting improvement until there is confidence, and until there is confidence the pump priming activities of the federal government cannot be relaxed.—Prof. Malcolm P. McNair of Harvard.

The welfare of youth deserves a place in all plans of social reconstruction.—George F. Zook, U. S. commissioner of education.

The contest is one of principle rather than personalities.—Henry P. Fletcher, new national chairman of the Republican Party.

The three men in the tub bobbed round till Scouty cried, "Where are you bound? I thought you said that you were coming right up to the shore."

"We've just found Bobby Shaf-toe. He just loves to ride upon the sea. If you will let us take your tub for him a treat in store."

"Be patient, youngster," one man cried. "We'll shortly let him have a ride. We won't attempt to land, though, while the waves are running high."

"You see, that really would be rash because, no doubt, our tub would crash. We only hope that we can join you youngsters, by and by."

So, all the Timies watched a while, and then wee Coppy, with a smile, exclaimed, "Hey, now's your chance, men. Things are quiet as can be."

"The waves have stopped their rolling and it's safe to drift up to the sand. We'll help you land your tub. Just try us out, and you will see."

In former days erysipelas was a cruel disease, producing a relatively high percentage of deaths. Before the development of a specific serum against it, the treatment of this disease was not very effective.

In recent years, however, an erysipelas antitoxin has been produced. This antitoxin, when injected into the body, neutralizes the poisonous material produced by the erysipelas germs.

A NEW TREATMENT FOR ERYSIPELAS IN CHILDREN

Erysipelas, or, as it is commonly known, St. Anthony's fire, is always a dangerous disease. It is caused by a germ which produces a specific poison of high toxicity. Erysipelas is particularly dangerous when it in-disease at all ages, it is particularly dangerous in children, and even more so in infants. In such cases the prompt use of anti-erysipelas serum has given good results and has been instrumental in saving many lives.

The treatment of erysipelas in children, however, has been recently even further improved, it having been discovered that ultra-violet irradiation produces excellent effects upon the disease in the young. This method of treatment calls for three applications of a sunburning dose of ultra-violet irradiation, given on successive days.

No ill effects were observed resulting from the sunburning. On the contrary, the duration of the illness was found to have been cut by half in those cases receiving ultra-violet irradiation, as against those that were treated with serum only. Fewer complications were found in cases treated with ultra-violet irradiation.

Various studies have shown that the death rate from infantile erysipelas is as high as from 60 to 90 per cent. With this newer method of treatment it is claimed that the death rate can be reduced to 20 per cent. This treatment also has the added advantage of being the least dangerous and least expensive.

Living Our Everyday Lives

LIFE'S DAY-BOOK

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

It will make us more healthy of mind and happy of heart if we take a little vow each day, like one of these:

To smile a little more and frown a little less, and not let an ugly mood or a hard knock mar the gift of a day.

To love a little more and hate a little less, because love is life and hate is slow poison that deadens the soul.

To appreciate a little more and criticize a little less, guided by our admirations rather than by our disgusts.

To keep our minds a little more open to other points of view, and a little less shut up with our own pet prejudices.

To do whatever we have to do in a manner a little nearer to our best, and be a little less content with shabby work.

To give up a little more cheerfully whenever giving up shall be necessary, and demand a little less praise for our good deeds.

To lose our temper a little less often and be a little kinder than is necessary to every one with whom we came in contact.

To add a little more to our physical efficiency and squander a little less vitality by neglect or abuse of the body.

To make a little more allowance for the faults and mistakes of the other fellow, and a little less for our own.

To be a little honest with our own souls, and keep fewer shallow pretences with which we try to deceive ourselves.

To open our hearts a little more to the interests and affairs of our neighbors, and concentrate less exclusively on our own.

To surprise ourselves a little often by resisting the downward drag of life, and lift a little more of the old load.

To take our religion a little more seriously as a way of living, and a little less as a last resort in defeat.

In short, to make by little efforts and loyalties a little advance toward the ideal of what we ought to be, and want to be.

THOMAS H. McWETHY (Contributed)

The passing of T. H. McWethy leaves behind a host of friends besides his family and other relatives who are bowed in grief because of the tragic death of one whom they deeply loved and at the same time will be sadly missed. He did not live among us many years, for he was called away at the age of 47 years, 7 months and 17 days, but the large circle of friends he made and the service he rendered this community will stand as a monument to the sacred memory of one who gave his best to the betterment of society.

It was on Nov. 28, 1907 that he was united in marriage to Edith Moats and this union was blessed with four children, Smith, Lucia, Ethel and Harriett. Mr. McWethy was devoted to his family and the Christian principles which he maintained in his home touched other homes and proved a decided blessing.

In early life he gave his heart to Jesus Christ and became a Christian, and developed a sterling character. He was interested in church work and had a disposition that made for him many friends who will long cherish his memory and emulate his virtues. He was deacon in the church for many years and served as Sunday school superintendent for some fifteen years, being in that position at the time of his departure. He loved to sing, and his voice had been dedicated unto the Lord, and it was his desire to be a blessing in bringing cheer, sunshine, a gladness into the hearts of others, which was the joy of his soul. His message in song will be long remembered.

His father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. George McWethy, with one brother, Fred preceded him.

There remains his wife and children, one brother, Glen, of Sterling and one sister, Mrs. Elmer Rice of Rockford, and one grandson, Richard Gates.

These with the community will feel a decided loss in the passing of Mr. McWethy, but he will live in sacred memory, and continue to

KNIFE WIELDER GIVES BROKEN HOME AS CAUSE

The Motive for Brutal Murder of Five
is Unfolded

Susanville, Calif., June 13—(AP)—“He broke up my family. Now I have broke up his.”

On this confession of motive, which authorities said was given to them by Peter Aloisi, 45-year-old lumber mill worker. District Attorney Grover C. Julian prepared today to charge Aloisi with stabbing to death three women and two men.

Sheriff James Leavitt said the purported confession was made by Aloisi yesterday.

Rumors that an attempt would be made to lynch Aloisi quieted after the Sheriff and leaders of the Italian quarter pleaded last night for orderly conduct.

The confession said Aloisi set out to kill only Joe Fazio, 45, grocery proprietor, and the latter's grown daughter, Sara, whom he blamed for the recent departure of his wife and the two Aloisi children for Boston.

Discovered in House

“I went to the house of Joe Fazio and killed him,” the reputed confession read. “I stabbed him and put him in the bathtub where I washed away the blood, and was cutting him up when Mrs. Fazio and John (the grocer's son) came to the house. I could not get away so I killed them, too.”

The statement told how Aloisi next went to his own home, near-burned his bloodstained clothes, donned others, procured another knife—having left his first knife in the Fazio house—and started in search of the daughter, Sara Fazio. He found her in an automobile with a woman neighbor, Mrs. Lena Amistano.

The confession said he told the girl her father and mother had been fighting, had been taken to the hospital, and asked the woman to take him there. As the car passed a millpond, he made his attack. The statement said, “I didn't want to kill Lena, only the girl, but I couldn't help it.”

“He broke up my family, now I have broke up his,” the statement ended. “All I want is a fair American trial.”

Poison, Luxury, Necessity—the Tomato Evolves In Its Century of Edible Existence

Governor Ferguson of Texas, with Tomato Salad

HOW the tomato has evolved! Not so long ago it was regarded as poison, and, judging by its original name, “love apple,” apparently a most insidious one. Then it became a luxury. Now the tomato enters into more dishes served on the American table than does any other fruit or vegetable.

No longer a luxury, it has come to be regarded as a necessity. So much so, indeed, that a national festival is being held this year to honor the tomato, on the one hundredth anniversary of the discovery that tomatoes are good to eat. In Texas, where much of the crop is grown, Governor Miriam Ferguson this month proclaimed a state-wide celebration and made public some of her favorite recipes calling for the use of tomatoes.

A great mineral source, providing phosphorus, calcium and iron, tomatoes are also exceptionally high in vitamin content. They contain vitamins A, B and C, with the last named in abundance.

Thursday, June 14th. The hostesses were: Mesdames Ruth Holdren, Elizabeth Banks, Pauline Holdren, and Maxine Gilmore.

Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Pool will leave Sunday from Mendota for Los Angeles by way of Denver and the Grand Canyon and then by boat to the Orient.

Hair Paid for Land

John Gatchel, a builder, who lived in Marblehead, Mass., in 1937, paid part of the cost of his land with his hair. In that year, he had built on land owned by the town, and for doing so he was fined 10 shillings. But, the court sentence read, if he should “cut ye long hair off his head,” half of the fine should be remitted and the site granted. Gatchel cut off his hair and the land was deeded to him at half the price.

Eleven Millions
in One Month

Using bonds of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis during May disbursed $11,167,500 in 3975 land bank and commissioner's loans to farmers of Illinois, Missouri and Arkansas, according to word just received by L. for different denominations or for registered bonds through the Federal Reserve Banks.

Shooting Stars

Shooting stars, or meteors, are fragments of cosmic stuff, wandering in upon the earth from the depths of space. Falling through space with incredible velocity, they dive into the atmosphere of our earth with such ferocity that almost all of them are burned into dust by the friction of the air and, in their destruction, give off bright light. This light makes it possible to measure their position as they fall and it was found that on the average they came between 50 and 80 miles above the earth; that is, they burn while falling those 20 miles.

WOOD CARVING AT VERY BEST SEEN IN DIXON

Great Display Will Be Open to Public Here
this Evening

A wood and ivory carving exhibit of locomotives of all ages one of the most interesting and valuable exhibits of handwork ever seen in Dixon, is on display today at the corner of Hennepin avenue and First street and will be open for free inspection until 9 o'clock this evening, when it will be taken to Sterling for the centennial celebration there.

The exhibit is the work of Ernest Warther of Dover, O., famous wood carver. It is built in a specially designed truck.

The hand carved locomotives in miniature are operated all together with an electric motor and some of the engines have been in operation ten years, according to Fred Warther, brother of the carver.

An idea of the perfection of the carvings can only be had by viewing them, but it is significant to know that Mr. Warther was offered $50,000 for the group before the largest and finest—a replica of the monster locomotive on the Erie road—was added.

The Erie locomotive a Mallet articulated triplex, is done entirely in ebony with ivory wheels and fittings, and certain embellishments in mother of pearl. The display ranges from this giant of the rail downward through the evolution of locomotive construction to the proposed engine of Sir Isaac Newton.

In each instance the construction of the miniatures is done with perfect fidelity to every detail of the originals. Each part of the replicas is a working part exactly as on the original locomotives. In their arrangement in the display being shown here, they are placed upon rails and powered in such a way that the wheels and pistons work constantly, to show the precision with which they can operate.

Railroads have used them repeatedly for display purposes and they have been featured in many a newspaper and magazine article.

The offer of $50,000 for most of those being shown here was turned down flatly by the artist who holds that they are priceless. Since that time he has added the big Erie model and four newer and larger types which have not yet been exhibited.

The Erie model contains a few more than 10,000 parts and the ivory ebony and pearl materials alone cost the builder $353. It required seven months and two weeks to build. It is complete even to the minutest detail. A bell rope, for instance, is carved of ivory and is so carefully fashioned that even the twist of the cord has been included by the carver.

There are sixteen models on display in the truck. While the carver's brother makes no charge for viewing them, he accepts whatever sum the caller wishes to leave with him.

A replica of The Pioneer, famous Chicago & Northwestern railway locomotive, is included in the collection. The artist wore out fifty-five blades in making the exhibit. Recently he carved an artistic cane which he presented to President Roosevelt, from whom he received a letter of gratitude.

The farmer who lived here hoped long and anxiously for rain and he finally got it. When the down-pour near Sioux City, Ia., had subsided, most of his land was submerged and water swirled about his porches and through his barnyard. CARNERA-BAER BOUT WILL BE PLACED ON AIR

NBC Network to Carry
Story of Battle
Tomorrow Eve

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
New York, June 13—(AP)—It is no trouble for anyone playing the "California lunch" this year to pick Max Adelbert Baer to champion the ponderous Primo Carnera and bring back the heavy-weight championship of the world to the U. S. A. tomorrow night.

College track and field honors already have been taken back to California by Stanford, Lawson Little and Olin Dutra have contributed golfing quests to the Golden State's sporting harvest, this spring and the brawny California Bears rank among the outstanding favorites for the Poughkeepsie regatta this week—so why not continue the parlay with the pride of the belting Baers?

It has been a long time since California was the capital of heavyweight fistfighting, unless the transplanted Coloradan, William Harrison Dempsey, is added to the illustrious championship list headed by James J. Corbett and James J. Jeffries, who still can be heard rumbly in the distance some-thing to the effect he would like to manhandle Carnera and Baer on the same night. It has been a long time, too, since anything developed so many fantastic angles as tomorrow night's brawl between the former circus freak and the motion picture playboy, but that won't prevent Californians, and the Hollywood colony in particular, from backing Baer to clout his way to the championship.

May Be Even Money
A week ago so much fuss was made over Baer's apparent lack of condition as a result of boxing commissioner Bill Brown's whistle-blowing that the happy-go-lucky Californian's chances took a sharp drop. Today, with increasing signs of unrest in Carnera's camp followed by the fact the champion has developed a sore throat, it appeared Baer's support would rally to the extent of making him close to an even-money choice by the time they climb into the ring in Madison Square Garden's "sunkun bowl" tomorrow evening.

The second examination of the two fighters within a week, conducted yesterday at the commission, resulted in both being declared generally in "fine condition." Three doctors inspected Carnera's throat and agreed that it was not serious. Since the huge Italian once fought ten rounds in Miami with a cracked rib and at other times while affected with varicose veins and sundry minor ailments, nothing so unimportant as a sore throat was considered a handicap by his followers.

Baer Is Confident
Nevertheless, the conviction has rapidly grown with the approach of the fight that Carnera, rather than Baer, will be the victim of unexpected condition. Whatever his shortcomings may be, the Californian has clowned himself into a happy state of mind and anticipation. He talks blithely of flattening the big man in less than six rounds. He has the punch to do it, if he can connect. He is supremely confident of Max Baer, and that's where the contrast enters the final picture.

For all his advantages in size and defensive ability, Carnera gives the impression of hoping for the best but fearing the worst. The man-mountain was ill at ease and nervous at the last official examination. He has trained so conscientiously for the past few months by sharp contrast with Baer's loose methods, that his camp followers now fear he has gone past his physical peak and that the throat cold is possible evidence of staleness. The scales will tell the store tomorrow definitely but reports are that Carnera has lost considerable weight, although he will have at least a 35 or 40 pounds' advantage under any circumstances.

May Be Knock-Out
Carnera's big knock seems to rest in his ability to stand off Baer's rushes and weather the Californian's earnest right-hand wallopers long enough to capitalize on his bulk and restore his confidence. It is the kind of fight that may develop a sensational knock-out and drag-out melee or it might go the limit of 15 rounds.

All things considered, this "duel of the daffydills" has stirred up more ballyhoo and argument than anything in heavyweight circles since the Dempsey-Turney days. It has brought the biggest gathering of the old fight club since the "battle of the long count" at Soldier Field, Chicago, in 1927, and it may leave a trail of disputes as loud and boisterous as the best of the "gate" seems to be that with a fair turn in the weather $350,000 will be collected from perhaps 40,000 cash customers. The top price is $25, reminiscent of the boom days, and the strange part of it is that these tickets are the hardest to obtain with speculators getting as high as $75 for the choice locations. Ten thousand seats at $2.50 each will be put on sale tomorrow afternoon at the Long Island city arena. The main bout is slated for 8 P. M. CST and will be broadcast over an NBC network, including WENR and WMAQ, Chicago.

BAKERS DROPPED TOUGH ONE TO OREGON TEAM AT DIXON AIRPORT DIAMOND LAST EVENING: 5 TO 4

GAMES THURSDAY
Princeton at Ashton.
Dixon at Sterling.
Rock Falls at Oregon.

The Bakers dropped one of the best softball games that has been played at the Airport field last evening, when Oregon managed to punch hits in the seventh inning to overcome a two run lead which Dixon had established and in the ninth, to go into the lead. There were three errors chalked up against the Bakers during the evening, whereas the visitors played errorless ball.

Adolph Feltang went the route for the Bakers and was touched for six hits. His strike-out record fell somewhat below par, but ten of the visiting batters having swung wildly at the third strike. A total of 14 strikeouts were registered against Dixon, all but four of these being credited to Mienke's delivery. He started out and stayed until the close of the seventh when Schulte, the strikeout king of the league, went to the mound. Of the eight Dixon batters he faced he registered four strikeouts, walked one and Dick Kehrt slapped a line drive over shortstop into deep center field with two gone in the last half of the ninth which was good for four bases.

Oregon scored first and hung up a single count in the third inning. Schertner, the first batter to face Feltang was walked. McGuire fanned and Trumble was out on a fly to Kehrt at center. Schertner went all the way to third on passed balls. Hawks' hard grounder to short saw both Miller and Lebre trying to field the ball, with the result that the runner was safe. Schertner scampered across the plate when Trumble fled to center.

The Bakers waited until the sixth before they started scoring. In the second inning they secured two hits off Mienke's delivery and the bases were full but the necessary single was missing. In the sixth, Carlson was called out on strikes. Fane waited and was walked. Kays drove a line single to right field and "Shires" Miller poked one into the car parking space in right field for four bags, scoring two runners ahead of him. Kehrt lined to first for the final out.

Oregon came right back in the opening of the seventh and tied up the count when Feltang appeared to weaken. Mienke was walked and went to second on an infield single which was too hot for Kays to field properly. Christensen hit a high one into short center which fell for a hit. Mienke scoring. Schertner walked and McGuire hit one to first which allowed Anderson to count. Trumble fanned. Hawks was safe at first when Miller threw Christensen out at the plate.

RACE OF HOME RUN HITTERS IS CLOSE ONE, TOO

No Indication Which Of Half Dozen Leaders
Will be Champ

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Like almost everything else in big league baseball this season, the home run battle has developed into a close and protracted scrap. With the rise of new clouters to rival the old standbys, Babe Ruth, Jimmie Fox, Lou Gehrig and Chuck Klein, about a third of the season has passed without giving any indication of who among half a dozen leaders will emerge the champion.

When Klein swatted his 15th home run yesterday in the Cubs' 6 to 5 decision over the Phillies it put him on even terms with the sensational newcomer, Zeke Bonura of the White Sox, the reliable Gehrig and Mel Ott.

Klein's homer came with two on in the third inning and helped offset the five runs the Phils scored off Jim Weaver in the same frame. Chicago took the lead in the fourth and held it with the aid of Bud Tinning's line relief hurling.

Rain Stops Babe
Meanwhile, Ruth broke a week-long drought with a home-run which would have been his tenth if it had counted. Rain nullified the blow and all the rest of the "Yanks and Browns" four innings of labor when it halted the game in the first half of the fifth.

Jim (Ripper) Collins of the Cardinals smacked homer No. 14 to aid St. Louis in a 7 to 3 conquest of the Braves. He joined the reserve life of the home run battle with Fox, just one behind the leaders, and incidentally contributed three runs to Paul Dean's sev-plate and Hasselberg lifted a high one to Kehrt in center, closing the round.

Two more runs counted in the ninth for the visitors when Feltang showed signs of tiring. With two out of the way McGuire was walked and went to second on a grounder to third which went for a hit. Passed balls put the runners on second and third in excellent scoring position and Hawks hit a low line drive into center field.

Swimming Pool Open
The swimming pool has been opened to the public. It is full of lovely clean water, from the well on the camp ground. Caretaker Snyder and Life Guard Clark Phillips gave the pool a good cleaning before the water was run in the pool. All of the buildings adjoining the pool have been cleaned good. These hot days are splendid for swimming, and no better place can be found than here in the Franklin pool. A new fence has been placed around the pool set aside for the little tots. A mother need have no fear of the safety of her child within this enclosure. A slight change in hours of swimming has been made: the pool opens at 1 P. M., closes at 4 P. M. Opens again at 6:30 and closes 9:30. The pool will be open on Sundays.

After a brief discussion of business the program committee took charge. The program opened with a song by all, followed by recitations, readings and music. The community paper was written and read by Mrs. Ethel Miller. A mock wedding which was full of fun then followed. All enjoyed a fine luncheon of sandwiches, pickles and pie. At a late hour all departed for their homes, expressing thanks to the Shultz family for the good time enjoyed by all at their home.

A Beautiful Wedding
The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wolf of this place was the scene Saturday evening of a pretty wedding when their daughter, Miss Edna, became the bride of Dr. L. S. Shively of Muncie, Ind. A company of seventy relatives and friends assembled to witness the event. Just before the ceremony Miss Pauline Trostle accompanied by Miss Lorena Buck sang two numbers, "All for You" and "At Dawning." Promptly at 8 o'clock the bride and groom proceeded by little Audrey Miller as flower girl who scattered roses in their path, descended the stairs and took their places beneath the bower of greenery and wedding bells. Mrs. Forrest Shively of Muncie, Ind. played the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin. The simple service was performed by Rev. O. D. Buck of this place.

Flowers, ferns and palms were used in decorating the rooms. The bride was gown in a pretty white lace dress, trimmed in tulle. She carried a bouquet of bridal roses.

Following the ceremony Miss Lorena Buck and Miss Pauline Trostle, accompanied by Miss Ruth Sollenberger of Elgin, Ill. sang two numbers, "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," and "The Sweetest Story Ever Told."

Delicious refreshments were served by six of the bride's girl friends as waitresses. The bride has a wide circle of friends to extend best wishes for her future happiness who will regret that her marriage takes her from her home town. For the past five years she has been teaching in DeKalb high school and has previously taught a number of years in the local high school.

Dr. Shively was connected with Mt. Morris College for a number of years as professor of mathematics and for the past five years has taught in the state teachers college in Muncie, Ind.

Mr. George L. Spangler,

Dear Sir:

Replying to your letter of the 3rd instant, beg to advise that the result of the vote cast by the legal voters in China township does not control the village board of Franklin Grove relative to local option should the township vote "dry," as those living in the village have the right to vote upon the question separately from the township whenever a sufficient petition is filed with the village clerk, sixty days before an "election."

Very truly yours,
Otto Kerner,
Attorney General.

Mrs. W. N. Aldrich Dies
Ella H. Aldrich was born on April 28, 1856, at Edwardsburg, Michigan, the youngest of a family of seven children born to Nathan and Harriet (Dunning) Aldrich. Being bereft in babyhood of a mother's care she grew up largely the charge of her older sisters and her blind father. She came to Illinois at the age of fifteen in company with her sisters and made her home with them in various places. She attended Mt. Morris Seminary for a time, later becoming a teacher. After several years service in rural schools she went to Hanover, Jo Daviess county, to take up a teaching position in the school there.

She was married to W. N. Miller of Hanover on November 6, 1879, and they lived continuously in that community until his death in February, 1920. Since then she has spent much of her time with her daughter and her two sisters, she and her daughter, Mrs. Kyle, having spent the summer of 1930 in this village, occupying Mrs. Zilpha Peterman's cottage.

She died very suddenly on Wednesday, June 6, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Della Thayer, after several months of failing health. She was a loyal, faithful member of the Hanover Presbyterian church and always retained her deep interest in that church, though she always attended the Sunday school and services of worship wherever she was, if her health permitted.

She leaves to mourn her passing an only daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Kyle of Cleveland, Ohio; a dearly-loved little grandson, Andrew Glover Kyle, Jr.; three sisters, Mrs. Emil Fraser of Clarksburg, California; Mrs. Della Thayer and Mrs. Clara Smith of Franklin Grove; a half-sister, Mrs. Little Squires of Orland, Indiana; besides a large group of nieces, nephews and other relatives and friends.

Her body was taken to Hanover on Saturday, June 9, where funeral services were conducted in the Presbyterian church by Rev. Thomas MacGregor, a very close friend of the family and a former pastor. She was buried in the family lot in the Hanover cemetery, beside her husband. A large company of former associates and old friends gathered to pay their last tribute to a dear friend. Those attending from here were: Mrs. Della Thayer, Mrs. Clara Smith, Mrs. Elizabeth Sunday, Mrs. Anna Ackerman, Richard, Carl and Ralph Sunday. They were accompanied also by Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Kyle and son who remained for a few days visit in Hanover and Galena.

The Air
The first investigation of the air was the discovery of its composition. Chiefly, the atmosphere consists of one-fifth oxygen and four-fifths nitrogen, by volume. Oxygen is the gas which makes life possible and is necessary to all burning; nitrogen keeps the world from bursting into flames and is also necessary for food in the existence of both animals and plants.

Origin of Writing
History does not throw complete light on the origin of writing. It is generally agreed that it was introduced into the western nations by the Phoenicians and it is believed that the Phoenician system was based on the Egyptian. The comparative antiquity of Egyptian and Assyrian or Akkadian cannot be determined.
